ABSTRACT

This thesis is titled "STUDENTS' APPRECIATION OF THE EUCHARIST SACRAMENT CELEBRATION AT SMP STELLA DUCE II YOGYAKARTA."

The purpose of this thesis is to provide an overview of the students' appreciation at SMP Stella Duce II Yogyakarta regarding the celebration of the Eucharist sacrament. The focus of the appreciation is limited to the liturgical aspect. Appreciation of the Eucharist celebration in the liturgical aspect, as taught by the Church, involves conscious understanding and active participation. Being conscious means comprehending the rituals performed, and being active means executing the rituals in the Eucharist Sacrament celebration effectively. This research employs a qualitative approach with data collection techniques such as interviews, observations, and documentation. The results of the research indicate that the students are still lacking in consciousness and activeness during the Eucharist celebration. Lack of consciousness implies that students still have a limited understanding or lack of comprehension of the rituals being performed. Lack of activeness means they are less genuinely involved in the Eucharist Sacrament celebration, both directly and indirectly.
